- Post quarter-end, signed an agreement to deliver the UNSW Transition Program (online)

Sydney, Australia, 28 October 2020: Higher education technology company OpenLearning Limited ('OpenLearning' or 'the Company') is pleased to provide its Appendix 4C cash flow statement for the quarter ended 30 September 2020 (Q3 FY20), along with the following update. The Company's fiscal year coincides with the calendar year.

Sustained long-term growth across key metrics

OpenLearning reported cash receipts of $781k in Q3FY20. Although there was a slight dip QoQ due to the Company's focus on securing revenue share arrangements for OpenCreds and longer-form programs, the YoY increase was a robust 45%. Cash outflow was $1.214m and the Company ended the quarter with a strong cash position of $4.7m as of 30 September 2020.

OpenLearning's annualised recurring revenue (ARR) grew to $1.225m in Q3 FY20, an increase of 55% YoY and 7% QoQ. There was also a substantial rise in Platform SaaS clients, which increased 160% YoY to 143. Strong growth in SaaS customers was primarily driven by new self-service SaaS plans, which enable smaller education providers to subscribe to OpenLearning's platform for up to 250 learners for between $500 to $1,000/year. As their usage grows, they will be required to upgrade to higher-value SaaS plans.

After the end of the quarter, the Company signed a five-year license agreement with the University of New South Wales Global (UNSW Global) to deliver the new Transition Program (online) for international students through its OpenLearning platform [See the ASX announcement dated 28th October 2020].

<sup>1</sup> Annualised recurring SaaS revenue, calculated by utilising the generally accepted industry standard, which involves multiplying the monthly accrued SaaS revenue in the month at the end of the quarter by 12 (months). The ARR calculation does not take into account the future expiry of the term of any contract under which SaaS revenue is generated or any customer lost during the relevant month.

As of 30 September 2020, OpenLearning has had over 4.2 million enrolments from over 2.6 million registered learners and over 4,000 active courses<sup>2</sup>, making it one of the world’s largest online education platforms.

The following charts highlight the Company’s track record of growth over the past eight quarters.

Images 1 - 4: Platform SaaS Customers (paying >$500/year), SaaS ARR, Cumulative Unique Users, and Cumulative Enrolments Growth, December 2018 – September 2020

The Company has recorded a net increase of 27 clients since the end of Q2 FY20. The figures for Q3 FY20 include renewals from two platform SaaS clients for which confirmation of the renewal has been received but signed agreements have yet to be exchanged due to the COVID-19 lockdown in Malaysia.

The substantial growth in enrolments was driven by institutions utilising OpenLearning for more than one course per learner, and learners returning to the platform to enrol in additional courses. This includes professional development courses in Malaysia, short courses in Australia related to COVID-19 and universities in Indonesia that began delivering multiple courses on OpenLearning during the quarter.

<sup>2</sup> Courses are considered active if they attracted over 10 enrolments in the period between 1st October 2019 and 30th September 2020.

Revenue by category

The Company's strategy is to grow SaaS revenue by providing its learning platform to education providers on usage-based SaaS agreements ('Platform SaaS'). It also generates revenue by providing professional services to education providers to assist them in designing courses ('Learning Services') and by taking a share of the revenue from courses sold through OpenLearning's course marketplace ('Marketplace'). Cash receipts from customers by category for Q3 FY20 were as follows:

- Platform SaaS: AUD $238k
- Learning Services: AUD $235k
- Marketplace: AUD $308k

The Company's cashflow from its Platform and Marketplace were strong as a result of demand from clients to move their courses online and attract new students as a result of COVID-19.

Supporting our partners through revenue share arrangements

The impact of COVID-19 on the higher education sector is significant and ongoing, resulting in a number of universities and higher education providers reducing expenditure in some areas while investing in others. The Company views this as an opportunity to support its partners by providing more flexible terms and investing alongside them to develop micro-credentials and qualifications that will result in new revenue streams for both parties.

In addition to expanding the core Platform SaaS business, the Company is working to secure revenue share arrangements for OpenCreds and longer form programs for which it will provide learning services/support in exchange for a percentage of student fees rather than charging for its services upfront on a fee for service basis. The Company evaluates the commercial viability of each project before entering into a revenue share arrangement with a university or higher education provider.

In line with the Company's strategy highlighted in its half-yearly report, it has begun developing a number of OpenCreds on a revenue share basis through its OpenCreds Investment Fund and through its existing partnerships. In some cases, the Company will forgo short term platform and services revenue in order to receive a percentage of enrolment fees in a multi-year arrangement.

Agreement with Open Universities Australia

In July 2020, the Company signed agreements with Open Universities Australia (OUA) to establish a close working relationship between the two organisations for the purpose of growing the micro-credential market in Australia.

Under the agreements, OpenLearning and OUA will jointly fund the setup and learning design costs of up to 30 OpenCreds through the creation of the Open Microcredential Development Grant with $750k of value, including a $450k in-kind contribution from the Company for learning design with the balance contributed by OUA in cash to universities.

During the quarter, OpenLearning and OUA engaged in discussions with a number of universities about their participation in the Open Microcredential Development Grant and the opportunity to distribute their courses through OUA. These discussions are ongoing, and the Company is pleased with the progress and the level of interest from Australian universities.

OpenCreds Investment Fund makes first allocations

OpenCreds Investment Fund allocated the first round of funding to eight education providers to develop 26 OpenCreds through an open and competitive application process. The recipients were:

- Catalyst Education, a leading supplier of vocational education and training in Australia and operates Selmar Institute of Education, Royal College and Practical Outcomes focus on the early childhood, aged care and disability care sectors and are registered training organisations (RTOs) accredited under the National Act.
- Le Cordon Bleu Australia, which offers world-class vocational, higher education and postgraduate studies in culinary, hotel and restaurant management, gastronomy, and tourism & event management in Adelaide, Brisbane, Melbourne, Sydney and Perth.
- ParentTV, a video streaming platform personalising parenting advice from the world's leading research-based parenting educators direct to parents via any digital device.
- RedHill Education Limited, which delivers vocational and higher education courses in English language, digital technologies, and interior design to over 4,000 domestic and international students each year across its four campuses and listed on the ASX in 2010.
- Switch Education for Business, which provides courses to support middle to senior management as they adapt to new ways of leading and managing amidst disruption in today's world.
- Eduvidd, a provider continuing professional development courses for nursing and midwifery.
- Laneway Education, which delivers courses that combine project-based learning, design thinking and networking to create a one of a kind learning experience that focuses on real-world outcomes, business innovation and industry engagement.
- The Growth Network, which publishes books and delivers courses related to business growth and supports a network of leading professional growth coaches who work with growing businesses.

The providers and courses were selected based on the quality of the application, track record of the provider and commercial potential. The OpenCreds selected will range from 2.5 hours to 50 hours of learning and are expected to sell for between $100 and $500 through OpenLearning once they are developed, of which OpenLearning will receive between 35% to 50% of the fees.

Growth from existing clients

During the quarter, OpenLearning saw continued growth from a number of its existing clients. Some key highlights were:

- UNSW, which continued to expand their usage of OpenLearning, including AGSM, which ran a course for 3,000 alumni and received a student satisfaction rating of 8.83/10.
- Australian Catholic University, which launched their first course in Q3 for over 1,000 learners.
- DeakinCo., which launched a suite of courses on OpenLearning targeting the international market and will soon launch professional development courses targeting the Australian market.
- High Resolves, which has continued to onboard additional schools into their courses on OpenLearning and has received very positive feedback from students.

New platform agreements in Malaysia and Indonesia

OpenLearning also continues to see growth in Malaysia and Indonesia. The Company now has a total of seven Indonesian universities using OpenLearning to deliver courses for their own students. Recently, OpenLearning has secured a number of new clients in Malaysia, including with local universities, colleges and training providers who are moving online due to COVID-19. OpenLearning has tailored the OpenCreds framework to the Malaysian higher education system and expects to launch the OpenCreds Malaysia framework in October 2020.

Strategy to capitalise on accelerated shift towards online education

The disruption caused by COVID-19 to the education sector has been a key driver of the Company's growth in the past quarters and is likely lead to fundamental and long-lasting changes to the higher education sector. The Company is being prudent by executing against a clear strategy that balances investing in growth and managing operating cash outflow by focusing on three key areas:

- Platform for delivering high-quality education

The Company's focus is on growing SaaS revenue by enabling education providers to deliver quality online education through its purpose-built platform and learning services division as the medium/long term solution for education providers to move online. The Company sees opportunities to support education providers large and small through this transition and is investing in scaling its online customer acquisition, sales and onboarding processes. In recognition of the impact of COVID-19 on the sector, the Company intends to work with selected partners on a revenue share basis to enable them to move online with minimal upfront costs.

- Leader in micro-credentials and short courses

The launch of OpenCreds and the OpenCreds Investment Fund, along with the agreements that the Company has signed with Open Universities Australia, have positioned the Company to become the leader in the fast-growing and strategically important Australian micro-credential market. The Company is seeing an increase in demand in this segment from both learners and education providers in Australia and across Southeast Asia and will therefore continue to invest in initiatives and partnerships to enhance its position.

- Strategic partnerships

The Company continues to actively pursue partnerships with companies that offer complementary products that fit into the OpenLearning ecosystem, resellers in new markets or sectors in which the Company does not currently operate and with higher education providers themselves, to accelerate the development of high-value courses and qualifications that have a strong business case and would create long term value for all parties.

OpenLearning Group CEO & Managing Director Adam Brimo said: "The September quarter was another strong one for OpenLearning, with us achieving solid year on year growth across all key metrics. As outlined in our half-year report, we are actively working to secure new partnerships on a revenue share basis for OpenCreds and qualifications to unlock significant value in the quarters ahead. We remain well-positioned to enable education providers to expand into micro-credentials and short courses by leveraging our purpose-built platform and our world-class learning services and delivery capability."
