Tinybeans' CEO, Eddie Geller, said:

"We're excited to broaden our platform to include the pets of our existing families and to welcome new pet-only families. This new feature not only services our existing users with a richer experience that caters to their entire family, but also broadens the user acquisition funnel to millions of pet parents who treat their pets like children."

Parents are hungry for the best information out there for their entire family. Expanding our memory and content offerings to pets creates additional reasons to engage while driving total lifetime value.

This platform release enhances and strengthens our position as the preeminent experience for parents and families everywhere, now inclusive of pets."

In addition to adding value to Tinybeans families, the Company expects these new features to increase user engagement and extend its value proposition for brand partnerships in the pets category.

The announcement was approved for release by the CEO.
