Key Risks

Examples of specific risks which relate directly to the Global Health business are set out below. The risks identified below may have a material impact on the financial performance of the Company and the market price of the Company's shares

The following is not intended to be an exhaustive list of the risk factors to which the Company is exposed:

Control of the Company. Micron Pty. Ltd. ACN 113 977 094 (Micron) is a majority shareholder of the Company. Micron currently has the ability to solely determine any ordinary resolutions put to members of the Company and can therefore affect, to some degree, the direction of the Company. There is a risk that Micron and its associates will decide to exercise its votes in a manner contrary to the interests of other members

Reliance on two products for majority of revenues. The Company's revenue relies predominantly on the MasterCare EMR (a team-based, multi-disciplinary case management system for mental health and other non-communicable diseases) and the MasterCare Patient Administration System. Failure to maintain customer satisfaction with these products and/or develop enhancements to meet customer needs may materially adversely impact Global Health's future operations and financial performance

Failure to properly execute the rollout of SaaS product offering. The Company has recently developed and is rolling out its 'Connected Health Records' suite of SaaS platforms. There is a risk that the initial stages of the commercialisation of these products will result in a less than optimal customer experience which may materially adversely impact future operations and financial performance

Competition. The Company develops software applications for the Australian Healthcare Industry. The industry is intensely competitive and subject to rapid and significant change. Competitors may be pursuing the development of products that target the same healthcare providers as the Company. The Company's products may compete with existing products already available to customers. The Company may face competition from competitors with substantially greater resources. Competing products may be superior to the Company's products, which would adversely impact the commercial viability of the Company's products

Technology disruption or failure. The Company relies on the performance and reliability of its technology. There is a risk that the Company's software applications or broader technology platform will contain or develop latent defects or errors, which will only become apparent when the software is implemented for new customers or when new versions or enhancements are rolled out to existing customers. This would materially adversely affect the Company's reputation and ability to generate new business. It is also possible that customers' data could be stolen, leaked or unintentionally lost resulting in warranty claims and litigation, which may have a material adverse effect on the Company's business, reputation, financial performance and operations

Dependence upon key personnel. The Company depends on the talent and experience of key personnel to deliver on its project commitments. If key personnel leave, it may be difficult to replace them, or to do so in a timely manner or at a comparable expense. Any key personnel who leave to work for a competitor may adversely impact the Company. Additionally, increases in recruitment, wages and contractor costs may adversely impact upon the financial performance of the Company

Intellectual property. The Company's ability to commercialise its software applications depends upon its ability to protect its intellectual property and any improvements to it. The intellectual property may not be capable of being legally protected, may be the subject of unauthorised disclosure, may be unlawfully infringed or the Company may incur substantial costs in protecting its intellectual property rights

Regulation. The research, development, manufacture, marketing and sale of the Company's products to the healthcare industry is subject to regulation (including regulatory approvals) by government authorities in Australia and overseas. Software applications to be deployed in the healthcare industry are subject to intense scrutiny and undergo a comprehensive development and review process before receiving approval for distribution. The process includes the provision of clinical data relating to the quality, safety and efficacy of the products for their proposed use. There is no guarantee that such regulatory approvals will be granted

Research & Development (R&D) Tax Rebate. The Company is currently entitled to receive a R&D rebate on part of its' R&D expenditure. There is a risk that the Australian Government may make material changes to the rebate scheme or not approve the Company's rebate applications, which may adversely impact the funding available to the Company to fund its operations. In order to obtain a R&D rebate on that part of its expenditure that is incurred out of Australia the Company must first gain approval for that expenditure from the Australian Government. Such an approval is called an Advanced Finding. The Company is currently preparing an Advanced Finding application. There is no guarantee that this application will be approved

Growth. There is a risk that the Company may be unable to manage or fund its future growth successfully. The ability to hire and retain skilled personnel as outlined above may be a significant obstacle to growth

Commercial Partners. The Company's growth strategy may be impacted if it is unable to find suitable commercialisation partners. The Company's due diligence processes may not be successful and a commercial partnership may not perform to the level expected

Additional requirements for capital. Depending on the Company's ability to generate income from its operations, further financing may be required from time to time. Additional equity financing will dilute shareholdings and debt financing, if available, may involve restrictions on financing and operating activities. A failure to obtain required financing may result in a reduced scope of operations, production levels, or require scale back in R&D and/or clinical trials. There is no guarantee that the Company will be able to secure further financing or be able to secure it on terms favourable to the Company
