Appendix A: Key risks

Key risks

1. Introduction

There are various risks associated with an investment in New Shares or in the Company generally, as with any securities market investment. This section summarises the following key risks:

- a) existing business and operational risks for the Company – these risks are generally common to copper, gold and lithium exploration in Australia and/ or are risks to which the Company would continue to be exposed regardless of the Offer.
- b) risks specific to the Offer and an investment in Shares (including the New Shares).

Potential investors should consider whether the Offer is a suitable investment having regard to their own personal investment objectives and financial circumstances, and the key risk factors set out below. The Company has implemented appropriate strategies, actions, systems and safeguards for known risks, however, some are outside its control.

It is not feasible to produce an exhaustive list of potential risk factors associated with the Offer. Potential investors should consult their professional advisers before making any investment decisions. The selection of risks in this presentation has been based on an assessment of both the probability of the risk occurring and the impact of the risk if it did occur. That assessment is based on the knowledge of Carnaby's Directors as at the date of this presentation, so that assessment may result in a different selection in the future, and none of Carnaby or its Directors provide any guarantee or assurance that the prominence of certain risks will not change or that other risks will not emerge.

2. Offer and share investment risks

COVID-19: The global pandemic arising from the spread of COVID-19 is having a material effect on global economic markets and the operation of a wide variety of businesses, including those in the mining industry. The global economic outlook is facing unprecedented uncertainty due to the pandemic, which has had and may continue to have a significant impact on the industry dynamics to which the Company is subject to, the macro-economic environment in which it operates, and capital markets generally. The Company's share price may be adversely affected by ongoing economic uncertainty, capital markets volatility or specific impacts on the Company and its operations that may arise in response to or otherwise as a result of COVID-19. Further, measures to limit the transmission of the virus implemented by national, state and local governments around the world or deemed necessary by the Company to protect the health of its workforce may adversely impact the Company's financial position and operations. The long-term impacts of COVID-19 on general economic or industry conditions and consumer spending are uncertain and may adversely impact the future financial and operational performance of the Company. The continually evolving situation presents unprecedented challenges to global financial markets and the global economy, including significant volatility and movements in securities prices and valuations, as well as unprecedented challenges to operational certainty.

3. Risks associated with the company

The Company's activities are subject to risks which may impact on the Company's future performance. There are a number of factors, both specific to the Company and of a general nature, which may affect the future performance and position of the Company and the outcome of an investment in the Company. Some of these risks can be adequately mitigated by the use of safeguards and appropriate systems but many are beyond the control of the Company and its Directors and cannot be mitigated. Investors should also consider the summary risk factors set out here in which the Directors believe represent some of the general and specific risks that persons should be aware of when evaluation of the Company and deciding whether to invest in the Company. The risk factors set out below are not intended to be an exhaustive list of all the risk factors to which the Company is exposed Copper and gold price and exchange rate: A key factor for the Company is the price of copper and gold. Prices fluctuate due to a variety of factors including supply and demand fundamentals, international economic and political trends, expectations of inflation, currency exchange rate fluctuations, interest rates, global or regional consumption patterns and speculative activities. There can be no assurance that prices will always be at levels such that the Company's deposits can be mined to provide an acceptable return in the future.

Exploration risks: The success of the Company also depends in part on successful exploration programs leading to the delineation of economically minable resources and reserves, securing and maintaining title to the Company's exploration and mining tenements and obtaining all consents and approvals necessary for the conduct of its exploration activities. Exploration on the Company's existing exploration and mining tenements may be unsuccessful, resulting in a reduction of the value of those tenements, diminution in the cash reserves of the Company and possible relinquishment of the exploration and mining tenements.

Ability to exploit successful discoveries: It may not always be possible for the Company to exploit successful discoveries which may be made on tenements in which the Company has an interest. Such exploitation would involve obtaining the necessary licenses, clearance and/or approvals from relevant authorities that may require conditions to be satisfied and/or the exercise of discretions by such authorities. It may or may not be possible for such conditions to be satisfied. Further, the decision to proceed to further exploitation may require participation of other companies whose interests and objectives may not be the same as that Company's.

Mineral Resource and Ore Reserve estimates: Mineral Resource and Ore Reserve estimates are expressions of judgement based on knowledge, experience and industry practice. These estimates were appropriate when made, but may change significantly when new information becomes available. Mineral Resource and Ore Reserve estimates are imprecise and depend to some extent on interpretations, which may ultimately prove to be inaccurate and require adjustment. Adjustments to Mineral Resource and Ore Reserve estimates could affect the Company's future plans and ultimately its financial performance and value.

Operating costs: COVID-19 and increases in future operating costs may impact the profitability of the Company's operations. The Company is exposed to movements in operating costs, including but not limited to:

- a) salaries;
- b) third party processing costs;
- c) fuel (for mobile equipment);
- d) consumables; and
- e) external contractors.

Contractors, services and utilities: The Company uses a range of external contractors and service providers to support its operations. There is a risk that the Company may not be able to engage contractors or services providers on acceptable terms, and that financial failure or default by any of the contractors or service providers used by the Company in any of its activities may impact on operating and/ or financial performance. The Company's operations require a consistent and reliable range of services including the supply of electricity and diesel fuel. There can be no assurance that the Company's present and future projects will continue to have access to adequate power and water supplies in the future or that the prices of such utilities will remain affordable.

4. General Risks

Mineral exploration and mining may be hampered by circumstances beyond the control of the Company and operations which by their nature are subject to a number of inherent risks. The company is subject to a range of general mineral exploration, technical and financial risks associated with establishing mineral resources, reserves and operating a mine, these include the general risk factors as set out below:

- Future capital requirements: If the Company requires future capital in addition to the funds raised under the Offer, such additional equity or debt financing may be dilutive to shareholders, may be undertaken at lower prices than the current market price (or the offer price) or may involve restrictive covenants which limit the Company's operations and business strategy. No assurances can be made that appropriate funding, if and when needed will be available on terms favourable to the Company or at all. Any inability to obtain sufficient financing for the Company's activities and future projects may result in the delay or cancellation of certain activities or projects, which would likely adversely affect the prospects of the Company.
- Key personnel: A number of key personnel are important to attaining the business goals of the Company. One or more of these key employees could leave their employment, and this may adversely affect the ability of the Company to conduct its business and, accordingly, affect the financial performance of the Company and its Share price. Difficulties attaining and retraining such personnel may adversely affect the ability of the Company to conduct its business.
- Economic factors: The operating and financial performance of the Company is influenced by a variety of general economic and business conditions, including levels of consumer spending, inflation, interest rates and exchange rates, supply and demand, industrial disruption, access to debt and capital markets and government fiscal, monetary and regulatory policies. Changes in general economic conditions may result from any factors including government policy, international economic conditions, significant acts of terrorism, hostilities or war or natural disasters. Any prolonged deterioration in general economic conditions, including an increase in interest rates or a decrease in consumer and business demand, could be expected to have an adverse impact on the Company's performance and financial position. The Company's future possible revenues and share price can be affected by these factors, which are beyond the control of the Company.
- Stock market conditions: As with all stock market investments, there are risks associated with an investment in the Company. Share prices may rise or fall and the price of Shares might trade below or above the issue price for the New Shares. General factors that may affect the market price of Shares include economic conditions in both Australia and internationally, investor sentiment and local and international share market conditions, change in interest rates and the rate of inflation, variations in commodity prices, the global security situation and the possibility of terrorist disturbances, changes to government regulation, policy or legislation, changes which may occur to the taxation of companies as a result of changes in Australia and foreign taxation laws, changes to the system of dividend imputation in Australia and changes in exchange rates.
- Native Title risk: The Native Title Act 1993 (CTH) (NTA) recognises and protects the rights and interests in Australia of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in land and waters, according to their traditional laws and customs. Native title may impact on the Company's operations and future plans. Native title is not generally extinguished by the grant of exploration and mining tenements, as they are not generally considered to be grants of exclusive possession.
- Insurance risks: The Company will continue to maintain insurance within ranges of coverage in accordance with industry practice. However, in certain circumstances the insurance may not be of a nature or level to provide adequate insurance cover. The occurrence of an event that is not covered or fully covered by insurance could have a material adverse effect on the business, financial condition and company results. Insurance of all risks associated with mineral exploration and production is not always available and where available the costs can be prohibitive.
- Litigation risk: Carnaby is exposed to possible litigation risks including native title claims, tenure disputes, environmental claims, occupational health and safety claims and employee claims, some with or without merit. Further, Carnaby may be involved in disputes with other parties in the future which may result in litigation. Any such claim or dispute if proven, may impact adversely on Carnaby's operations, reputation, financial performance and financial position.
- Weather and climate risk: The current and future operations of the Company may be affected by restrictions on activities due to seasonal weather patterns, flooding and cyclonic activities.
- Regulatory risk and approvals: The Company's operations are subject to various Federal, State and local laws, including those relating to mining, prospecting, development permit and licence requirements, industrial relations, environment land use, royalties, water, native title and cultural heritage, mine safety, mine rehabilitation following closure and occupational health. Approvals, licences and permits require to comply with such rules are subject to the discretion of the applicable government officials. There is a risk that such laws, regulations and specific conditions may impact on planned exploration activities and any future permitting required for the Company's strategy. No assurance can be given that the Company will be successful in obtaining any or all of the various approvals, licences and permits or maintaining such authorisations in full force and effect without modification or revocation. To the extent such approvals are required and not retained or obtained in a timely manner or at all, the Company may be curtailed or prohibited from continuing or proceeding with exploration and production. The Company has identified that exploration activities may create disturbances associated with drilling during the exploration phase of project evaluation.
