Continuing growth in customers drives financial performance

Active customers<sup>1</sup>: 19% 6 year CAGR<sup>5</sup>

Q3 records have set up a strong Q4

Sam Riley
CEO & Co Founder

Consistent customer growth and improved financial metrics

In Q3 we had record wins<sup>6</sup> and record growth in customers. We remained cashflow positive and saw sales growth across all channels, products and regions globally.

Our set of B2B products are designed for managing critical information and business processes, so it is pleasing to report growth despite the traditionally seasonal low December, January and February trading periods.

Our deferred revenue (revenue that will be recognised in future periods) grew 14% quarter on quarter and our ARPA continued its growth, increasing by 17% quarter on quarter. Both are strong leading indicators on future results.

In the quarter we completed the purchase and full transfer of our Vietnam software development operation that we set up nearly 5 years ago under a Build Operate Transfer (BOT) model. This purchase has reduced our OPEX and allows us to attract and secure excellent talent even more efficiently and quickly.

As a result, our financial model became healthier in Q3.

Increasing demand and validation of growth strategy

The large jump in customers in Q3 is validation of our frictionless freemium strategy, where anyone can sign up for free, get straight into one of our solutions and start experiencing value fast without any risk. In the quarter, we launched into our user base and the broader market two solutions under this model. They were a big hit with hundreds of signups, and our existing freemium offerings for our core products grew at record rates too. What's next is optimising the conversion rate from freemium signup to subscribers, which is where our teams are focused.

Positive outlook

With a lot of engines firing, Q4 is looking strong for us. Historically it is Q4 and Q1 that are our strongest growth periods. We will see the record wins<sup>5</sup> of Q3 flow through into revenue, more of the record customers from freemium will convert into paid subscribers and our teams are launching some big improvements to our products and further optimisation of the customer journey.

All of this will make Ansarada more attractive to customers, and improve our conversion rates and our overall business model.

We've got our eyes on the big prize. We have expanded our product set, we've increased our addressable market to $52bn<sup>7</sup> and we've established a highly scalable efficient model. We can deliver profitable growth whilst maintain cashflow positivity and a strong balance sheet, enabling us to deliver sustainable returns for shareholders.
