The Entitlement and Acceptance Form does not need to be signed to be a binding acceptance of the New Listed Options or Broker Options (as applicable) under the Offers. Section 3 RISK FACTORS

3.1 Introduction

This Section 3 identifies the areas the Directors regard as the main risks associated with an investment in the Company. There are numerous widespread risks associated with investing in any form of business and with investing in the share market generally. There is also a range of specific risks associated with the Company's business. These risk factors are largely beyond the control of the Company and its Directors because of the nature of the business of the Company. The following summary, which is not exhaustive, represents some of the main risk factors which the Directors consider potential investors need to be aware of.

3.2 Company specific risks

(a) Capital requirements

The continued operations of the Company are dependent on its ability to obtain financing through debt and equity means, or generating sufficient cash flows from future operations. There is a risk that the Company may not be able to access capital from debt or equity markets for future projects or developments, which could have a material adverse impact on the Company's business and financial condition.

The Company's ability to borrow money will be subject to the availability of debt at the time the Company wishes to borrow money and the cost of borrowing.

(b) Exchange rates

The income and expenditure of the Company can and often will be accounted for in United States and other currencies, exposing the Company to the fluctuations and volatility of the rate of exchange between these currencies and the Australian dollar as determined in international markets.

(c) Reliance on key management

The responsibility of overseeing the day-to-day operations and the strategic management of the Company depends substantially on its senior management, each of whom has knowledge and experience of the Company's products and services that cannot be replicated by others in the short term. The CEO and management may, subject to the relevant periods of notice specified in their employment agreements with the Company, terminate their employment relationship with the Company at any time and the loss of any member of the senior management team could harm the Company's business.

The Company will need to hire new technical and sales personnel as the business grows. Competition for such personnel is intense and any shortage of availability of the required skills could impair the development of the Company's business and the rate of such development. Such shortages could also cause wage inflation, which may impact on the Company's financial position and financial performance.

(d) Third party licences

The Company may from time to time operate through utilising licences granted to it by third parties. In such circumstances, the Company's ability to conduct the relevant operations are subject to the continued rights to utilise those licences. If for any reason the relevant third parties are unable to (or refuse to) continue to grant rights in respect of those licences, this may impact on the Company's financial position and financial performance.

(e) Contract risks

The Company's subsidiaries may operate through a series of contractual relationships with operators and sub-contractors. All contracts carry risks associated with the performance by the parties thereto of their obligations as to time and quality of work performed. Any disruption to services or supply may have an adverse effect on the financial performance of the Company's operations.

(f) Regulatory risk

The Directors anticipate that the Company may have operations in overseas jurisdictions and as a result may be exposed to a range of different legal and regulatory regimes. This will give rise to risks relating to labour practices, foreign ownership restrictions, tax regulation, difficulty in enforcing contracts, and other issues. Possible sovereign risks include (without limitation) changes in legislation, a shift in political attitude, changes in economic and social conditions, political instability, the imposition of operating restrictions, government participation, changes to taxation rates and/or concessions, exchange control, licensing, duties or imposts, repatriation of income, or return of capital. Any of these factors may, in the future, adversely affect the financial performance and financial position of the Company.

(g) Litigation risk

The Company is subject to litigation risks. All industries, including the technology industry, are subject to legal claims, with and without merit. Defence and settlement costs of legal claims can be substantial, even with respect to claims that have no merit.

Due to the inherent uncertainty of litigation processes, the resolution of any particular legal proceeding to which the Company is or may become subject could have a material effect on its financial position, results of operations or the Company's activities.

(h) Taxation risk

Any change in laws and regulations applicable to the taxation of income, intercompany transactions, withholding taxes, levies and other transactional taxes affecting the Company in the countries it operates in or in which it is listed, or any change in the current interpretation or any disputes with tax authorities or any changes to the Company's income mix, may adversely affect its tax status and increase its tax payable, which would have a negative effect on financial results.

(i) Employment law risk

From time to time, the Company may receive claims from former employees for a variety of labour related matters which may or may not have merit. The Company's general approach is to defend these claims as they arise. As with any litigation the outcome of any claim will not be known until heard by the court. Any claim which is not able to be successfully defended may result in a loss to the Company.

3.3 Technology and intellectual property

(a) Controls on the Company's intellectual property

The Company's intellectual property includes its software development and proprietary technology, knowledge base of business operations (including user, industry and market behaviours), customer records and the experience of its management team and workforce. The Company proposes to maintain strict security and monitoring of its software code and customer records, including protection and restriction on physical access.

(b) Unauthorised use of intellectual property

Despite best efforts to the contrary, the Company cannot be certain that third parties will not make unauthorised use of intellectual property relevant to the Company's business to the detriment of the Company, its operations and business. In addition, there can be no guarantee that unauthorised use or copying of the Company's software, data or specialised technology will be prevented. Any unauthorised use, access or copying of the Company's intellectual property could impact adversely on the Company's financial position and financial performance.

(c) Inability to protect intellectual property rights

Legal standards relating to the validity, enforceability and scope of protection of intellectual property rights are uncertain, particularly in developing economies around the world. Effective patent, trademark, copyright and trade secret protection may not be available to the Company in every country in which it may eventually operate. Accordingly, despite its efforts, the Company may not be able to prevent third parties from infringing upon or misappropriating its intellectual property.

The Company intends to pursue intellectual property protection for technologies it develops in future. However there is a risk that the Company will be unable to register or otherwise protect new intellectual property it develops in the future, or which is developed on its behalf by contractors.

In addition, competitors may be able to work around the intellectual property rights relied on by the Company, or independently develop technologies or competing products or services that do not infringe the Company's intellectual property rights. Those competitors may then be able to offer services that are very similar to or otherwise competitive against those provided by the Company and this could adversely affect the Company's business.

(d) Costs of enforcing intellectual property rights

The Company may be required to incur significant expense in monitoring and protecting its intellectual property rights. It may initiate or otherwise be involved in litigation against third parties for infringement, or to establish the validity, of its rights. Any litigation, whether or not it is successful, could result in significant expense to the Company and cause a distraction to management.

In addition, monitoring unauthorised use of the Company's intellectual property is difficult and may require the commitment of a large amount of financial resources. As a result, the Company may be unable to detect the unauthorised use of its intellectual property rights.

(e) Challenges to the Company's intellectual property rights

There is a risk that the validity, ownership or authorised use of intellectual property relevant to the Company's business may be challenged by third parties. While this could involve significant expense, it could also result in the Company being unable to use the intellectual property in question, either temporarily or permanently. If an alternative cost-effective solution is not available, it may materially adversely impact the Company's financial position and performance.

Such disputes may also temporarily or permanently adversely impact the Company's ability to develop its software and systems and this may adversely impact the Company's revenue and profitability.

(f) Source Code

The Company owns the copyright in the source code at the heart of its technology. If the source code is made available to third parties it may be misappropriated and used in competition with the Company's products and services and this may have an adverse effect on the Group's financial position. It may be difficult for the Company to discover whether a third party has misappropriated and used the source code and it may be expensive for the Company to enforce its rights with respect to its source code. The Company has a policy regarding the use of, and maintaining the secrecy of, its source code and ensures that its staff and contractors are bound by that policy.

(g) Intellectual property infringement claims from third parties

There is a risk that other parties may develop substantially similar products, processes or technologies to those used by the Company and the Company may be subject to claims from time to time that it has infringed a third party's intellectual property rights. If such claims are substantiated, injunctions may be granted against the Company which could adversely affect the operation of its products, and have a negative impact on its business.

The Company does not believe that it is currently infringing any third party's intellectual property rights and, to date, no third party has asserted that the Company is infringing their intellectual property rights.

(j) Developing technology

The Company's future business prospects will depend on its ability to anticipate and respond to technological changes. The Company's prospects will also depend on its ability to develop and protect technology that meets changing market needs and addresses the technological advances and competitiveness of other companies operating in the markets targeted by the Company. There is also a risk that new products or technologies developed by third parties will supersede the Company's technology.

The Company may not be able to successfully respond to new technological developments or identify and respond to new market opportunities, products or services offered by its competitors. In addition, the Company's efforts to respond to technological innovations may require significant capital investments and resources. Failure to keep up with future technological changes or to identify opportunities for use of the Company's technology could have an adverse effect on the value and prospects of the Company and its technology.

(k) Security breaches and data protection issues

The Company collects a wide range of confidential information. Cyber-attacks may compromise or breach the technology the Company uses to protect confidential information.

Despite its efforts, there is a risk that the Company's security measures may not be sufficient to detect or prevent unauthorised access to, or disclosure of, confidential information held by the Company. Data security breaches could result in the loss of information integrity or breaches of the Company's obligations under applicable laws and agreements. This could lead to increased security costs and a slower take up of the Company's products and services by customers, and may adversely impact the Company's reputation, value, and financial performance.

3.4 General risks

(a) Coronavirus (COVID-19)

The Company's operations may be adversely affected in the short to medium term by the economic uncertainty of the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. Whilst the impact of COVID-19 appears to have stabilised in most countries (including Australia), no guarantee can be given that governmental or industry measures taken in response to COVID-19, or any potential future pandemic (if any), will not adversely impact the operations of the Company and are likely to be beyond the control of the Company.

(b) Securities investments

Participants should be aware that there are risks associated with any securities investment. The prices at which the Shares trade may be above or below the issue price and may fluctuate in response to a number of factors. Further, the stock market has experienced price and volume fluctuations. There can be no guarantee trading prices will not be subject to fluctuation. These factors may materially affect the market price of the Shares, regardless of the Company's operational performance.

(c) Share market conditions

The market price of the Shares may fall as well as rise and may be subject to varied and unpredictable influences on the market for equities in general. Neither the Company nor the Directors warrant the future performance of the Company or any return on an investment in the Company.

(d) Economic risk

Changes in the general economic climate in which the Company operates may adversely affect the financial performance of the Company. Factors that may contribute to that general economic climate include the level of direct and indirect competition against the Company, industrial disruption in any of the areas in which the Company operates, the rate of growth of gross domestic product, interest rates and the rate of inflation.

(e) Policies and legislation

Any material adverse changes in government policies or legislation of Australia or any other country in which the Company has economic interests may affect the viability and profitability of the Company.

(f) Investment speculative

The above risk factors ought not to be taken as an exhaustive list of the risks faced by the Company or by prospective investors in the Company. The above factors, and others not specifically referred to above, may in the future materially affect the financial performance of the Company and the value of the New Listed Options and Broker Options offered under this Prospectus. Therefore, the Shares to be issued on the exercise of the New Listed Options and Broker Options to be issued pursuant to this Prospectus carry no guarantee for the payment of dividends, returns of capital or their market value. Prospective investors should consider that the investment in the Company is speculative and should consult their professional adviser before deciding whether to apply for New Listed Options or Broker Options pursuant to this Prospectus.

If the Listing Rules require the Constitution to contain a provision or not to contain a provision the Constitution is deemed to contain that provision or not to contain that provision (as the case may be).
