OPERATIONAL HIGHLIGHTS

- The signing of multi-year development contracts with Meta and Skydance Interactive

FY24 GUIDANCE

- Substantial investment in new Original IP development across mobile, PC/Console and VR
- FY24 revenue guidance of $50-55m

I could not be happier with what we've been able to achieve at PlaySide in the last year. Our Dumb Ways to Die franchise really went to another level in terms of brand strength, crossing over from an in-house portfolio of games to include premium titles across mobile, VR and tabletop games in partnership with major technology and entertainment companies. We have great ambitions for this franchise and will look to leverage its global appeal further in FY24.

With the Original IP projects that we announced two years ago now largely complete, our teams begin to shift onto a new slate of projects with an increased focus on PC/console titles. This strategy has been reinforced by recent Work for Hire projects that have demonstrated our capabilities on larger projects. Importantly, these plans have been made possible by the high levels of revenue visibility that our Work for Hire pipeline and franchise titles provide. We look forward to updating you on our progress.
