3 Target Market

The table below summarises the overall class of consumers that fall within the target market for the New Options, based on the product's key attributes and the objectives, financial situation and needs that it has been designed to meet.

Factor	Target Market
Investment Objective	The Company expects that an investment in the New Options will be suitable to investors who have the right, but not the obligation, to gain exposure to equities in a small market capitalisation manufacturer and supplier of x-ray technology products listed on the Australian Securities Exchange (ASX), and for those who: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • seek to profit from an appreciation in the market price of Shares in the Company, and/or who have a medium to long-term view on the Shares or the underlying assets of the Company; • who are accustomed to investing in speculative investments in products for the security and healthcare sectors; who see potential additional value from the New Options given the price and term of the New Options.
Investment Timeframe	The target market of investors will take a short to long term outlook in relation to their investment in the Company and are in a financial position that is sufficient for them to invest their funds over the 2-year period from the issue of the New Options to their expiry, should they wish to exercise their New Options. The Company will not apply for official quotation of the New Options on the ASX. The New Options are transferrable subject to compliance with the Corporations Act and the ASX Listing Rules. New Option holders will also have an ability to exercise their New Options and trade the underlying Shares issued on exercise, however investors should be aware that such dealing is only likely to be commercially viable in the event that the trading price of the Shares exceeds the exercise price of the New Options both at the date of exercise and at the date of sale.
Investment Metrics	While the Company does not have an established eligibility framework for investors based on metrics such as age, expected return or volatility, it is expected that the target market of investors will be able to withstand potentially large fluctuations and the potential for losses in the value of their investment. The New Options offer no guaranteed income or capital protection. An exercise price is required to be paid to acquire Shares on exercise of New Options. As such, the capacity to realise the underlying value of the New Options would require that they be exercised on or before the relevant expiry date. Investors in the target market will need to be in a financial position to have sufficient funds available so as to facilitate an exercise of the New Options prior to the relevant expiry date. Prior to the relevant expiry date, investors' ability to liquidate the New Options may be limited by a lack of liquidity in the trading of Shares and the price of the Shares.

Risks

The Company considers that an investment in the New Options will have a different risk profile to a direct investment in Shares, including due to the fact that there is no obligation to exercise the New Options prior to the relevant expiry date.

Investors should consider the risk that there is no guarantee that the Company's Share price will exceed the exercise price of the New Options. Investors should take this into consideration in subscribing for Shares and taking up their right to the New Options.

The Company considers that an investment in the Options is high risk and highly speculative, such that an investment in the Company is not appropriate for an investor who would not be able to bear a loss of some or all of the investment.

Investors should also have a sufficient level of financial literacy and resources (either alone or in conjunction with an appropriate adviser) to understand and appreciate the risks of investing in the New Options as an asset class generally and the high risks of investing in the Company.

Specific risks relating to the Company and an investment in the Shares are set out in the Prospectus and investors should review those risks carefully before deciding whether to invest.

The Company has assessed the New Options and formed the view that the New Options, including the key attributes set out in section 2, are likely to be consistent with the objectives, financial situation and needs of investors in the target market described above in this section 3.
