ASX ANNOUNCEMENT

Fat Prophets Global Property Fund (FPP) June 2024 NTA update

June 2024 Monthly NTA Announcement

Key Points:

- Fund NTA decreased 0.6% during June on cum distribution basis. A 3cpu half year distribution was announced, payable to investors on record in late June.
- Global REITs were essentially flat at +0.1% during June in AUD terms
- REITs outperformed equities in Australia and UK but meaningfully underperformed in the US in FY24

Dear Unitholders,

REITs were essentially flat during the final month of the financial year. Global markets are increasingly edging toward cutting of official interest rates, although the surprise resilience and upward tick in inflation in Australia reported in June has raised fears that the next interest rate move from the RBA may be upward rather than downward. This provides a potential near term macro challenge for Australian REITs.

	31 May-24	30 June-24	Change
Value per unit (cum distribution)	$0.8697	$0.8641	-0.6%
Value per unit (ex distribution)		$0.8341

During the full year FY24 the AUD strengthened very mildly against all other relevant currencies. The AUD vs the most relevant currency for the fund (USD) barely changed over the year.

The Fund cash balance was essentially stable to 8.1%.

Top holdings in the Fund as at the end of June are summarised in the following chart.

The largest REIT holdings represent a mix of US asset exposure across healthcare, residential, shopping centres, industrial warehouses. Prologis is the Fund's fourth largest holding and was a top performer in June.

The best and worst contributors to return for the month of June are summarised in the following chart.

Prologis is an investment position the fund made its first investment into a few months ago. Its stock price declined 8.4% in FY24 while its primary peer Goodman Group recorded a 73% share price increase. They are both major industrial warehouse owners, developers and fund managers, and both are the largest REIT in each of their respective countries (US and Australia). We have seen some relative value opportunity emerging which we have invested into and our exposure to PLD exceeds our GMG exposure.

Reviewing the full year return for FPP holdings, the major contributors are reported in the following chart. There were a number of holdings which performed strongly. A number of Australian REITs had weak performance for the year despite the Australian REIT index performing so well during the financial year.

Outlook

Reviewing the FY24 price returns for major countries in their local currency, it is notable that there is a stark difference in US REIT returns vs equities relative to Australia and the UK. In the US, REIT returns were negative, very substantially underperforming the US equity market return. US REITs also were also much lower returning than the REIT market returns in Australia and the UK. The US REIT price return of -4.3% compares to the 18.5% return from AREITs. Goodman Group accounts for 25% of the Australian REIT Index and rallied 75% in FY24, alone accounting for the AREIT index positive return and implying the AREIT price index ex GMG returned 0% for the year.

Interest rate cuts have commenced in some markets. More cuts are anticipated in other regions. This tends to be supportive of defensive sectors including REITs. Consequently we see value in higher yielding and more deeply discounted REITs, and expect an easing bias to drive REIT outperformance vs equities, and to also drive absolute return opportunity, noting many REITs are trading at substantial discounts to net asset values.
