- ChemX proceeding with Pilot Plant Construction for HPA production at Scale
- International Focus for Joint Venture Offtake, Strategic Partnerships & Investors

O'Connor, Western Australia: ChemX Materials Limited (ASX:CMX) (ChemX or the Company), an Australian high purity critical materials company and 100%-owner of the HiPurA[®] patented process to produce High Purity Alumina (HPA) is pleased to advise it has appointed TritonLake to act as the Company's Corporate Advisors.

ChemX is commercialising its unique HiPurA[®] technology producing HPA and other aluminous products from a chemical feedstock, independent of mine production, thereby potentially reducing project risk and approval lead times. Importantly, ChemX has the opportunity to co-locate future production facilities with offtake partners in key markets.

Under the agreement, ChemX will have access to TritonLake's network of global partners and investors as it moves forward with its final phase of pilot plant construction and commissioning.

A detailed summary of the corporate advisory mandate is set out in Schedule 1.

TritonLake CEO Conor Smyth Commented: "It is a pleasure to be working with ChemX as it takes its patented HPA production process forward to realise its global potential. The attractiveness of a high purity alumina process to be deployed in key markets including USA, Europe and South-East Asia has the potential to integrate into supply chains for the next generation of technology and consumer applications across AI Semiconductors and Micro LEDs."

TritonLake's appointment comes at a key time for critical materials as the world seeks to harness the high value materials to drive the AI and energy revolution. HPA and Synthetic Sapphire serve a key purpose in providing chemical inertness in high value applications whether in Semiconductors, Micro LEDs or Optical devices.

About TritonLake: Founded in 2015, and with offices in Dublin, New York, San Francisco, Singapore, and Sydney, TritonLake is a global placement and advisory business connecting differentiated opportunities with sophisticated investment allocators.
