Management commentary

Chief Executive Officer, Dr James Fielding said:

“The September quarter represented another period of strong execution with respect to our stated growth strategy, highlighted by ongoing momentum for the group’s well established and fast-growing AUA Technology division. Pleasingly, this progress was achieved alongside consistent trend improvements in key financial metrics, including cash receipts and net operating cash flows.”

“Quarterly cash flows were underpinned by Audeara’s production licensing agreement with global music instrument manufacturer Zildjian, which was first announced in February and continues to generate strong sales at attractive margins. That momentum was complemented post-balance date with a material purchase order from Clinico, which provides Audeara with a solid margin on product and strategic distribution footprint across major Asia-Pacific markets including China.

“The September quarter marked the second consecutive quarter where AUA Technology was the major contributor to group sales, further highlighting the delivery of our stated strategy but also the major addressable market opportunity Audeara now has before it. We look forward to providing more updates in the December quarter and beyond, as we continue to pursue commercialisation opportunities for this Australian-made technology in international markets.”

Operational overview

During the quarter, Audeara achieved a number of significant milestones, which lay a strong foundation for growth and a broader presence in the Asian markets.

- Eastech Agreement: Audeara secured a binding Letter of Intent (LOI) with Eastech, a Taiwan Stock Exchange-listed company valued at approximately A$530 million. This LOI aims to bring Audeara's innovative hearing health solutions to the Chinese market, where an estimated 426m people suffer from hearing loss. Under the terms, Audeara will licence its technology to enable the development of medical devices manufactured under Eastech's National Medical Products Administration (NMPA) certification. This partnership is expected to create a robust pipeline for future products targeting the rapidly growing healthcare sector in China.
- Clinico Purchase Order: Subsequent to the end of the period, Clinico Inc., the largest hearing aid retailer in Taiwan, placed a $570,000 purchase order for Clinico-branded healthy hearing earbuds. This followed an initial cash deposit of $180,000 received during the period. The co-development partnership is part of a broader strategy to launch these products in Taiwan and China, with a coinciding Australian launch in the coming months through online channels and audiology clinics. This milestone signifies confidence in Audeara's solutions and positions the company to increase market share in Asia.
- Ongoing momentum with Zildjian: Subsequent to quarter end, Zildjian made a long lead time cash deposit to secure components ahead of an anticipated follow up purchase order for the Perfect Tune headphones, following the success of the initial product rollout.
