PORTFOLIO REVIEW

The Glennon Small Companies portfolio returned (-1.434%) in February, compared to its benchmark S&P/ASX Small Ordinaries Accumulation Index of (-2.795%), outperforming the index by 1.36%. The Small Ords fell over February as the market took stock of events in the US and the impact that will have on global economies affected by the protectionist policies of the US. The GC1 Portfolio was helped by a lack of liquidity in some of smaller names. The portfolio is now 15.4% ahead of the index over the past 12 months and 10.2% over the past 6 months.

The main contributors to performance were SGH Limited (+7.45%), Sandfire Resources (+5.79%) and Kelly Partners Group (+8.16%). Kelly Partners produced a strong result, with revenue growing at 23% and strong cash generation from operations. The company has forecast revenue of $134m for the full year, up from $108m last year. There is also the additional upside from US expansion, that is only small at present, but provides a large potential market opportunity.

The main detractors from performance were Superloop (-3.52%), Metgasco (-20.00%) and Pro Medicus (-8.95%). Pro Medicus had performed strongly over December and January and has now retraced some of that ground back at levels that company was trading at in November 2024. The results from Pro Medicus had been well flagged were in line with expectations. We are confident that the circa 5% market share the company has in the US will continue to grow over the medium term.
