

HotHealth to support Indigenous Parents & Children

Delivering culturally safe, digital tools for Indigenous families across Australia

Highlights

- The partnership will see the implementation of HotHealth for digital forms and ReferralNet for secure messaging across 21 health organisations, including hospitals and maternity health services.
- Our digital platforms aim to enhance support for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander families during the critical first 2,000 days of a child's life, aligning with national priorities around Closing the Gap.

Global Health Limited (ASX:GLH) ("Global Health" or "the Group") is pleased to announce a new contract supporting Baby Coming You Ready? - a culturally safe digital platform focused on improving antenatal and postnatal care for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander families.

The agreement includes a recurring annual revenue of $31,548 including GST. The deployment of Global Health's HotHealth and ReferralNet platforms will support BCYR (<https://babycomingyouready.org.au/>) in harnessing digital solutions to increase accessibility of culturally sensitive health services for Indigenous Australians.

Strengthening Indigenous maternal health through digital innovation

Baby Coming You Ready? is an innovative and culturally appropriate digital service that empowers Indigenous families by enhancing communication between expectant parents and healthcare professionals. Designed with cultural safety at its core, the platform supports early engagement, facilitates trust-building, and enables more effective care planning throughout the antenatal and postnatal journey.

The initiative, originally developed by Murdoch University also forms part of two other research projects - Replanting the Birthing Trees implemented by the University of Melbourne and ICARE, implemented by SAMHRI in Adelaide. The Baby Coming You Ready, Replanting the Birthing Trees and ICARE projects all aim to improve outcomes for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander families by bridging the health disparity gap in the crucial first 2,000 days of a child's life.

Global Health's HotHealth platform will be used to support the Baby Coming You Ready picture-based assessments, creating an accessible and interactive experience for families. ReferralNet will ensure secure, streamlined sharing of sensitive clinical information across multidisciplinary teams involved in family care and maternal health.

Implementation across states

The deployment will in the next 2 years span across 21 organisations, with services located in Western Australia, Queensland South Australia and Victoria. The digital rollout will help clinicians deliver care that is not only clinically effective but also culturally responsive, aligning with national priorities around Closing the Gap.

Global Health Managing Director Mathew Cherian said: "We are pleased to be part of the Baby Coming You Ready? initiative. This collaboration underscores our commitment to enabling culturally safe care through innovative digital health solutions. Supporting Indigenous mothers and families in the early years of a child's life is both a privilege and a responsibility, and we're proud our technology can play a role in that journey."

Rhonda Marriott, Pro Vice Chancellor, Ngangk Yira Institute for Change said: "We are pleased to be working with Global Health which is a forward-thinking organisation that is respectful of the responsibility to ensure the integrity of Baby Coming You Ready. Global Health is highly responsive to ensuring the 'future proofing' of the Baby Coming You Ready complexities in a highly professional, expert and thoughtful way. We are excited to see extent of the new platform's capability that will allow us to respond to the growing demand from hospitals and Aboriginal Medical Services across Australia."

This ASX announcement has been authorised by the Board of Global Health Limited (ASX:GLH) and released by the Company Secretary.
