La Punilla gold-silver project, San Juan, Argentina

The Company is pleased to announce one of the three applications it has submitted in the highly prospective province of San Juan Argentina has been granted. The Company has engaged the services of an Argentinian based geological team to manage a geological program over the Company's project.

The program has been designed around visual anomalies identified via satellite imagery that led the Company to submit applications over the areas of interest, as first announced on 4 November 2024.

The initial program will include geochemical stream sediment and rock chip sampling program - focussing on historical quartz gold veins and visible alteration zones to identify geochemical anomalies and associated pathfinder elements.

The program will also include geological mapping to characterise lithology, alteration zones and structural features.

Chairman Joseph van den Elsen said:

"The grant of the La Punilla licence paves the way for immediate grass-roots exploration in the province of San Juan, which hosts significant copper and gold endowment. We now look forward to the results of our initial exploration program, designed to gain a better understanding of the projects geology and mineral prospectivity"
